The latest crime and student suspension figures are now out for every North Carolina public school.

Data released by the State Board of Education showed a 6.1% decrease in acts of school crime and violence between the 2023-24 and 2024-25 school years. There was also an 8.6% decrease in the number of short-term suspensions during that time period.

School crime and suspensions remain above pre-pandemic levels from the 2018-19 school year. But state education officials say the trends over the last two years are showing improvement.

SCHOOL CRIME UP 20% IN WAKE

Wake County saw 1,527 reported in-school crimes — a 20% increase from the prior school year.

Much of the increase was fueled by a 47% increase in cases of a possession of a controlled substance. These drug cases accounted for 55% of the district's total crimes.

Assault on school personnel was the second-most reported crime at 295 cases — a 45% increase from the prior year. But Wake also saw a 25% decrease in reports of possession of a weapon.

Short-term suspensions rose 4.2% to 13,304 for the district.

OTHER TRIANGLE DISTRICTS

Elsewhere in the Triangle:

- Chapel Hill-Carrboro City Schools saw a 41% increase in school crime and a 5% decrease in short-term suspensions.
- Chatham County School saw a 45% decrease in school crime and an 11% decrease in short-term suspensions.
- Durham Public Schools saw a 28% decrease in school crime and a 71% decrease in short-term suspensions.
- Johnston County Schools saw a 132% increase in school crime and a 17% decrease in short-term suspensions.
- Orange County Schools saw a 49% decrease in school crime and a 2% increase in short-term suspensions.

Most of Johnston County's increase in crimes was due to jumps in possession of controlled substances and possession of weapons.
